SCOTT SERIES 80 GOOGLE

All 80s Series goggles are manufactured with Scott's proven no-fog, anti-fog lens treatment for fog-free performance and interface with 80 Series replacement lenses, tearoffs and the WORKS film kit.

So there's not going to be too much fogging going on.

The Series 80s are available in a swag of colours so you can match 'em to your wildest riding on-somm (we heard some fashion wanker call his clobber that the other day). They're even available in clear (which is handy in a goggle).

AIROH HELMETS

The Airoh Stelt MX range of Carbon/Kevlar composite helmets will be new to most Aussies, but are well established in Europe.

The Stelts weigh in at 1000gm, and Airoh says this makes a noticeable difference to a rider's fatigue and the outer shell – made of carbon and pre-impregnated epoxy aeronautical Kevlar composite fibres, moulded at high temperatures – is available in two sizes. The liner is removeable and washable, as are the cheek pads, and there's a stack of venting and other great premium features.

The Stelt is available in sizes XS to XXL.

FERRIS WHEELS DVD

We gotta love these guys from Ferris Wheels. From humble beginnings more than 15 years ago, the Ferris Wheels portfolio now consists of 10 or 12 three-week tours across a dozen different countries. Mike and/or Denise lead every tour themselves, maintaining their very personal and professional service.

This new DVD is completely free, but might end up actually costing you a bundle, 'cos the content will have you wanting to call Ferris Wheels and head off to far horizons with them.

The DVD is yours for the asking. Just email safari@ferriswheels.com.au or telephone 02 9970 6370.

Their group size is typically 15 to 20 riders, with or without pillion partners. All tours are fully backed up with a support van for luggage and a motorcycle mechanic or two to keep the machines in top condition, as well as a local tour escort who speaks the necessary language in the relevant country.

More information on their tours and destinations may be found on www.ferriswheels.com

AXO MELBOURNE JACKET

A jacket made for Aussie conditions! The Melbourne is a weather-resistant jacket with reinforced shoulder and elbow panels, removable sleeves (which can be stored in the rear zippered pouch), a couple of upper pockets to hold cell phones, trip cards and essential info and the hip pockets below to hold larger items.

Venting is adjusted with protected zippers, and a cool feature is the adjustable/removable neck opening, which accommodates a neck brace. A smooth liner allows the jacket to slip over your arms and glide over any armour you might be wearing.

And if it can hack Melbourne weather, it can hack anything!
